7. CONCISE SUMMARY (150 WORDS OR LESS):

Section 22-306(c) (2) of the Stormwater Management Rule for Stormwater-Impaired Waters includes a reference to a specific standard in the Vermont Stormwater Management Manual (VSMM) and therefore, must be amended as part of the rulemaking package to update the 2002 VSMM.

In addition to that change, the proposed Stormwater Management Rule for Stormwater-Impaired Waters also includes minor updates to the authority, policy, definitions, exemption, "permit required," and duration of permit sections, consistent with 10 V.S.A. § 1264; updates to Appendices A and B to remove outdated cross references; updates to "effective date" language; updates to the appeals section, consistent with statute; and updates to contact information.

8. EXPLANATION OF WHY THE RULE IS NECESSARY:

As explained above, the Stormwater Management Rule for Stormwater-Impaired Waters must be amended as part of the rulemaking package to update the 2002 VSMM.

The existing 2002 VSMM must be updated because, since it was adopted, there have been significant advancements in the field of stormwater management. On-the-ground research and development in the stormwater field has enhanced our understanding of green stormwater infrastructure, as well as the scientific and engineering community's understanding of the pollutant-removal capabilities of certain stormwater treatment practices (STPs). Further, since 2002, the Agency of Natural Resources has developed a better understanding of how stormwater runoff contributes to water quality impacts, and what regulatory measures can be taken to address those impacts.

9. LIST OF PEOPLE, ENTERPRISES AND GOVERNMENT ENTITIES AFFECTED BY THIS RULE:

Individuals required to obtain a post-construction stormwater permit.

State agencies and departments, particularly the Vermont Agency of Transportation (VTrans), the Agency of Commerce and Community Development, and the Department of Buildings and General Services. These entities conduct or manage activities that may be subject to stormwater permit requirements including the new VSMM.

Property owners statewide, including businesses (excluding farmers in compliance with the Required Agricultural Practices) and homeowners, who require a stormwater permit.

Engineers, designers, consultants, and contractors who design and construct stormwater systems and work on stormwater permit applications.

The public at large with an interest in water quality.

10. BRIEF SUMMARY OF ECONOMIC IMPACT (150 WORDS OR LESS):

The economic impacts of the updates to the Stormwater Management Rule for Stormwater-Impaired Waters are related to the updates to the VSMM, which are as follows:

1. The new 2017 VSMM increases treatment requirements compared to existing standards and may result in a cost increase for some projects.
2. The addition of acceptable treatment practices may have positive economic impacts because the additional design flexibility contained in the proposed 2017 VSMM will allow designers greater options.
3. The incorporation of green stormwater infrastructure may have positive economic impacts, because such practices provide options aside from large structural practices such as ponds, which can be costly to construct.
4. Construction of stormwater facilities in conformance with the 2017 VSMM will contribute to the construction-based economy.
5. Compliance with the 2017 VSMM will help restore, maintain, and protect the waters of the State, which provide numerous economic benefits associated with clean water.
